

It develops that the address on the Philippines made recently by former President E. H. Magill, of Swarthmore College, before a Friends Association stated the probable policy of the administration as to the islands as Mr. Magill

According to Professor Magill the President's policy contemplates only a protectorate for the island and the same treatment for the Philippines as for the Cubans. In accordance with the declarations of the United States at the opening of the war—

"Before preparing this address," said Professor Magill, "I deemed it prudent to seek a personal and private interview with President McKinley. He granted me a day and during a conversation of nearly half an hour he sent me a paper, which he had despatched but not yet received."

"This interview left on my mind the decided impression that the treatment of the Philippine is to be on the line of preserving peace among

Professor Magill's address was referred before delivery to President McKinley, who slightly amended and approved it. Solicitor General Richards wrote to Mr. Magill, in the President's behalf, that Mr. McKinley found nothing in it that ought to be eliminated.

Professor Magill discussed various possible courses as to the Philippines, and then said:—

"Would it not be better for the United States

In continue its protectorate over these people avoiding by all means treating them as a conquered nation, but rather regarding them as friends and Allies, and securing their cooperation in establishing a system of self government? Our protectorate must be of such a na-

"By pursuing this course, too, we should avoid the charge of national expansion, which threatens too early to become a watchword in the next Presidential campaign. This would be unfortunate, for as soon as any form of word becomes a party cry in a political campaign, all hopes of reasoning on the subject vanish.

"Why may not the course proposed for the Philippines be as practicable for them as for Cuba, where we are bound to apply it even as

"We should make no promises as to the duration of the protectorate which we would establish and maintain over these incipient nations, but leave it to time and the evolution

NAVAL AND MILITARY NOTES.

(From Home Papers.)

The American cruiser Raleigh, from Manila and Manila, arrived in Algiers on 8th ult.

The German gunboat Jaguar, an unprotected, flat-bottomed boat for rivers and shallow coast waters, with a crew of one hundred and twenty men, will be ordered to the coast of

It was arranged some time since that the S. George, cruiser, was to have been commissioned at Portsmouth on 10th ulto, to relieve her sister ship the Grafton, cruiser, Canton.

The Japanese cruiser Kasagi, built at Cramp's Yard, Philadelphia, and which went to Armstrong's at Newcastle to receive her armament, left there for Portsmouth on 7th ult., where she was to coal and provision and proceed to her destination in about a week. The Japanese t. b. d. Kazuo also arrived on 9th ult., and will leave under convoy of the cruiser.

The cruiser Aurora left Plymouth for China on 4th ulto., to relieve the Immortalité cruiser. She arrived at Gibraltar on 8th ulto. The Aurora, on her recent commissioning trial attained the following mean results for the three hours' run:—Steam, 130lb.

vacuum, starboard 24 8in., port 21 8in.; revolutions, starboard 1009, port 1014; l.h.p., starboard 2,748, port 2,803—total, 5,551; a.p.s., starboard 1,000, port 1,000; pressure, l.h.p., speed, 10 1/2 knots.

It is announced that Admiral von Knorrr, the Commander-in-Chief of the German Navy, has tendered his resignation and that it has been accepted. Admiral von Knorrr had made known his intention of retiring as long ago as last autumn. Some papers connect Admiral von Knorrr's resignation with Admiral von Diederichs' recall from the Far East, but the two facts are not necessarily related. The Admiral has been recalled merely because he is needed.

The German Emperor, on 2nd ulto., addressing the marines who were leaving for Kiaochow on 4th ulto., at Wilhelmshaven, said: "You may well be proud to go forth as pioneers."

In a lecture by Admiral Colomb on the recent war, he said, the most striking feature of the naval operations—and here he cited the battles of Manila and Santiago confirmed the precedent of the Yalu in the China-Japan ese War—was that destruction preceded surrender; and a very terrible destruction was. Historically it had not been so; the only consolation to be extracted from the facts was that these battles took place in sight of land and that, perhaps, in deep water a commander

In connection with the very large shipments of goods continually being made from Russia to the Far East, and more especially to Port Arthur, a further large consignment of munitions of war, stores, and rails, and a further contingent of about 2,000 paid volunteers, especially picked from among time-expired men, have just left Odessa for Port Arthur. It is intended that these men shall be sent up country to guard the Manchurian section of the Siberian Railway. The entire Russian garrison son in the Far East, now number nearly 40,000 men. The above-mentioned material and volunteers go forward in the French steamer Les Alpes, chartered by the Government, although there are several "volunteer" fleet steamers lying idle in Odessa.

The German Emperor has appointed his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, to the command of the Cruiser Squadron in Chinese waters in succession to Admiral von Diederichs who carried out the occupation of Kiaochow.

The appointment is not an extraordinary one from the Service point of view, for Prince Henry is one of the oldest Vice-Admirals in the German Navy. He ranks, as regards seniority, next to the Imperial Secretary of Marine, Vice-Admiral Tirpitz. With the exception of twelve months ending in the autumn of 1896, he has, since October, 1892, been engaged unremittingly in active service. The Herliner Neueste Nachrichten thinks the appointment has a distinct political significance. The brother of the Emperor William, who at the same time is the brother-in-law of the Tsar and the grandson of Queen Victoria, is described as a personage whose character and rank will both help him to compose many differences in the Far East and also to promote German prestige.

The report of the Army Medical Department for 1897, which has been issued as a Blue-book, states that the average strength of European troops serving at home and abroad in 1897, as computed from the returns received by the Army Medical Department, was 198,294 warrant officers, non-commissioned officers, and men. The total number of admissions to hospitals was 192,654, and the total deaths 1,871. The admissions represent a ratio of 97.3 per 1,000 of strength as above; the deaths one of 0.95 per 1,000, on a strength of 200,055, which includes detached men not shown in the returns received. In China the health of the troops generally was unfavourable, the most marked feature being the continuous and exceptional prevalence of venereal diseases, which show a further increase, amounting to nearly 33 per cent. in excess of the admissions during the previous year. In the Straits Settlements there was a large amount of sickness from malarial fevers, but venereal diseases, although they continue to be very prevalent, declined considerably as compared with 1896 and with the decennial average.

The Admiralty have decided that the new first-class cruiser to be laid down at Barrow-in-Furness shall be named the King Alfred, in honour of Alfred the Great's millenary. The two first-class cruisers to be laid down on the Clyde are named the Leithian and Africa. The two first-class battleships, allotted to the Thames Ironworks are to be called the Duncan and Conestoga. The first-class battleship to be laid down at Birkenhead will be christened the Emworth, and the Rustad is to be the name of the first-class battleship that is to be built at Hull.

On 4th inst. a Royal Warrant was announced to give substantive in place of honorary rank to officers of the Army Pay Department. Chief paymasters are in future to have the rank of colonel; staff paymasters, with five years' full-pay service as such; are to be Lieutenants; and the rank of major is to be given to other staff paymasters, to paymasters with seven years' full-pay service as such, and not less than twenty years' commissioned service on full pay, and also if appointed before April 1, 1895, to paymasters with ten years' full-pay service as such, though they may not have completed twenty years' commissioned service on full pay. With the exceptions mentioned, paymasters will have the rank of captain.

The Navy Estimates for 1899-1900, show an increase of nearly £1,000,000 upon those of 1898-99, the total which Parliament is asked to vote being considerably over £26,000,000. It is proposed to add between 4,000 and 5,000 men to the existing strength, which accounts for a substantial increase in the vote for officers, seamen, and others. This, however, is by no means the most important item; for the largest share of the new expenditure is for shipbuilding, repairs, &c.; while the votes for victualling and clothing, naval armaments, works at home and abroad, &c., are also considerably in excess of those submitted last year.

THE CHINESE PROBLEM.

PARIS, March 8th.

The following semi-official Note is issued here:—

"It is absolutely untrue that the French Minister at Peking has made any representations to the Tsung-tai-Yamen advising the rejection of a request for a concession presented by the Italian Government. It is unnecessary to point out the biased character of this statement, which attributes to the French agent an attitude contrary to the instructions which have been given him."

PARIS, March 8th.

"The Journal in an article on 'The Partition of China,' says:—

"All the Powers have established themselves in such a way as to be able to take advantage of the eventualities of a near future. Each one wants, or will want, a portion of China. Today it is Italy; to-morrow it will be Belgium. That does not suit the English, who, there as elsewhere, wish to be the sole masters. For one part, Italy's endeavour will cause neither surprise nor displeasure. It will not be our diplomacy that will put difficulties in Italy's way. To see all the European nations taking up positions in China is for us a guarantee. There is room for all, and the competition of the Powers offers us a technical guarantee, which it would be difficult for us to secure if we found ourselves alone face to face with the English."

RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN POLICY.

(From a "Semenov" Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 8th.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, has been interviewed on the new aspect of the Chinese question, by which the Continental Powers seem to be preparing for the eventual partition of China, while this country is believed to be adopting the British policy of free commercial access, but not territorial aggrandisement. The Ambassador said:—"We are faced with a proposition which Italy's action has made possible. The attitude of Russia is unchanged, but we are wondering what the United States will do in this emergency. It would seem that the United States will, by force of the necessities of the case, share in the deliberations of the other nations concerning China's commercial existence." The Ambassador referred to the interests of the United States being also Russia's interests, and declared:—"From the outlet of the China Sea we may hope to enter the commercial world in the four quarters of the globe."

SINCE the publication of this interview the officials of the State Department have denied that negotiations are proceeding with the British Government regarding China. It is gathered that the American Government will not join any Power in making representations regarding the political situation in the Far East.

The Ambassador argued for a common policy on the ground of the similarity of the interests, and referring to his country's friendship for the United States, said:—"If Russia's aid during the late war had been wanted, it would have been given freely and fully. Russia would be the first to welcome the co-operation of the United States in finding a solution for the existing difficulties."

NEW YORK, March 8th.

The Washington correspondent of the Herald telegraphs that Mr. Hay distinctly and unequivocally refused Italy's formal request to support her in the action she had taken in claiming Samam Bay. He adds that the definite announcement of Great Britain's policy in China is anxiously awaited. Mr. Hay said he regarded it as of great importance to the United States. The authorities at Washington think that Great Britain must, within a few days, distinctly reiterate its insistence on the open door and the territorial integrity of China, or announce a reversal of policy.

A BRITISH OFFICER ARRESTED AT MACAO.

THE CONSUL INTERVENES.

We hear that on Monday afternoon last Colonel Brown, D. S. O., Military Attaché to the British Legation at Peking, was arrested at Macao. It appears that Colonel Brown, while passing a religious procession, known as the Senhora Remedios procession, neglected to take off his hat. It is said the Colonel's hat was knocked off and he, unaware of the Portuguese custom and thinking that his hat had been knocked off by accident, replaced it on his head, only to have the act repeated. He was then arrested by order of Lieutenant Gallardo, Aide-de-Camp to the Governor of Macao, and taken to the church enclosure. Capt. Clarke of the S.S. Hungshan attempted to explain matters and after some little time prevailed upon Lieut. Gallardo to accompany Colonel Brown to the British Consulate, where, after some discussion, he was allowed to go free. We understand that the matter has been reported to the British Minister but as to whether an apology has been tendered or demanded we are unable to say.

NOTES FROM HOME PAPERS.

ALGERIA AND MOROCCO.

It is stated that there are indications of the possibility of serious trouble between Algeria and Morocco. The chief cause of friction has arisen, apparently, from the wholesale exodus of Jews from Algeria into Morocco in consequence of the persecution to which they have recently been subjected in the French dependency, and the indisposition of various Moroccan chiefs to permit them to settle in Morocco.

A CINCINNATI MAN, named Charles Klaus, has filed a novel answer and cross-petition to the divorce suit of his wife, Katherine Klaus. According to the New York Times, he alleges that she carefully concealed from him during courtship that she had a glass eye, and when it became broken a bill came for the expense of another. He left her, and now sues to divorce because of the alleged fraud practised upon him.

AMERICAN CABLE TO HAWAII.

The Standard Washington correspondent states that the Sundry-Civil-Appropriation Bill includes half a million dollars towards the cost of construction by the Naval Department of a cable to Hawaii, which, when completed, will be transferred to the Post Office, which will have discretionary powers regarding the commercial use of the wire. An additional two million dollars will be available for the undertaking.

THE DUKES' FIRST SMOKING CONCERT.

The Duke of Devonshire is 66 years of age, but up till the other evening he had never been present at a smoking concert. The occasion was the annual smoking concert held by the staff of the Education Department, and his Grace took the chair. It was in reply to a vote of thanks, proposed by Sir George Kekewich, that the Duke of Devonshire made the confession referred to, and supplemented it by the statement that he had been a confirmed smoker all his life.

CINEMATOPHOTOGRAPHY-A MURDER.

During the trial at St. Louis, Missouri, of a man named Campbell, charged with murder, the prosecution introduced a set of cinematograph pictures giving the scenes of the crime. The instrument, which was kept in the room where the murder was committed, happened to be working at the time, and recorded the details of the killing. The lawyers for the defence say that if their client is convicted they will appeal against the use of the photographs as not being, in this instance, among the evidence legally allowable.

CRUEL FRENCH CARTOONS.

Some revolting cartoons, of which the late M. Faure is the subject, have made their appearance in Paris. One by Forain is published in the Comedie Parisienne. The subject, says the Daily News Paris correspondent, is an elderly gentleman wearing white gaiters, and of imposing appearance, who has fallen on the ground in a fit of apoplexy. A lady crouches over him, and another, a young girl, is directly en face of him, and all a fourfold. Be quick about it. Another cruel cartoon is the one in which the 7,000 victims of malarial fever at Malunga, placed on M. Faure's tomb wreaths on which skulls take the place of flowers.

HOW RUSSIA "DISARMS."

THE RUSSIAN NAVY.

The Russian Government has recently given orders for the speedy construction of an armoured cruiser of the same type as the Vladimir, now being built at the Baltic Works, near St. Petersburg. The new vessel will be built in the yards of the New Admiralty at St. Petersburg, and the speed aimed at in each cruiser is to be 18 knots an hour. The Russian Mediterranean Squadron, under the command of Rear-Admiral Skrydlov, has recently left Crete, and is visiting the ports of the Mediterranean. During the coming summer part of the squadron will return to Russia.

GREAT FIND OF OPALS.

A sensational find of opals is reported from Winton, Queensland. Two Germans who had done well tell their claim to two men named Shillingham and Greenough, who had only moved a few inches of earth when they struck a big opal-bank. This, when opened up, resulted in the unearthing of one of the largest blocks of opal ever discovered. The "pipe" is alleged to be 11 ft. in length and in places as thick as a man's thigh. The services of four men were required to carry it to the main field. The value of the opal is between £7,000 and £10,000.

A Southern opal buyer states that there is such a great quantity of opal on the field, that he is unable to purchase it all.

UNEARTHING CARTHAGE.

For a considerable time M. Gauckler, the French Director of Antiquities in Tunisia, has been conducting excavations at Carthage, and his efforts have just been crowned with great success. A colossal head of Marcus Aurelius, statues of priests and priestesses, beautiful mosaics, and many sculptured relics of gods and goddesses are among the discoveries numbered. But it would seem to be only the Roman Carthage that M. Gauckler has got down to—not the Carthage of the ancient Phoenicians which Cato the Elder destroyed, but the Carthage built on its ruins by Julius Gracchus in B.C. 122.

ABOUT THE AMEER.

The Ameer of Afghanistan, the rumour of whose death has not been confirmed, is one of the most interesting despots in the world. He is a man of great stature and colossal strength, with a broad, massive countenance, and brilliant black eyes. His bearing is dignified and commanding; though he can be genial when he cares to be. Sir West Ridgeway, who had good opportunities of judging, describes him as one of the few great men living. His domestic policy, according to Sir Lepel Griffin, is harsh, rapacious, and cruel. He rules with a rod of iron, but he rules a hard and cruel people, and he is not to be judged by the principles of Christendom.

AN ALLEGED CURE FOR PNEUMONIA.

Professor Wassermann, one of the most diligent and capable pupils of Professor Koch, hopes, states the Berlin correspondent of the Daily News, to have found the serum for the cure of pneumonia. Pneumonia is said to be caused by the pneumococcus bacillus. Dr. Wassermann inoculated rabbits with this, and with the serum that he inoculated mice infected by pneumonia. After prolonged experiments he discovered that it was the red marrow of the bones in which the production of the anti-toxin took place, and the most promising discovery is that the red marrow taken from a human subject dead from pneumonia, and used as serum, will cure mice infected with the disease. Professor Wassermann thinks, therefore, that the serum discovered by him will also prove effective with human beings.

WASSERMANN'S CHARACTERISTICS.

We at last learn from one of our cousins across the Atlantic, Mr. Italian Ralph, writing on "English Characteristics"—the real and true truth about the English climate. It is, Mr. Ralph believes, so enervating that the needs of the day, with even a snack between some of the meals, are needed to combat it, with a single glass of whisky, one in the afternoon, and another in the morning, of alcohol, and a little more in the evening, to get through the day, and to get back to normal health. The more authentic seeing that Mr. Ralph is from an Englishman, Mr. Ralph's advice is the soberest and most sensible of any. From him he complained of the English climate, and who pointed out to him the necessity of getting on to the English climate with a single glass of whisky, one in the afternoon, and another in the morning, of alcohol, and a little more in the evening, to get through the day, and to get back to normal health.

REPTILES AND BOWLS.

A good many things are being written and said about reptiles. One of our friends, a correspondent, remarks that Kipling's friends are a little more of opinion rather than men or thought. In a letter to him, he was almost alone, and he was in the Lawrence Hall, at the time, in the course of, or wherever men are gathered, the other two being Lieutenants. The first of the two, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the second, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the third, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the fourth, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the fifth, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the sixth, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the seventh, a British soldier, of the 1st Buffs, and the eighth, a
